

respect your truth and honesty. Do not claim to have worked somewhere if you have not, and so on and so forth.

These basic tips, we hope, will help you along in the job interview season.

You may already be a fantastic interviewee, but unfortunately do not always get that golden interview. If this is the case, then you must focus on your resumé and references.

Regardless, the job interview is the key to nailing a position that you have been dreaming of.
